Victim

Michelle,
 You're a person that one could never forget.
 The gym room is always cool,
 nice place to meet people,
 and it always seemed to meet there. Good Luck always and I have lots of fun that summer. Always remember short hand and Mrs. Keese, when she left. Don't get into too much trouble.
 May God bless,

The Class of 1971 dedicates this yearbook to Mr. Robert Ellen in gratitude for his four years as our class advisor.

Mr. Ellen contributed much time and effort to our class projects, and was an unfailing source of help and friendship to us all. He supplied ideas, know-how, talent and contacts, but most important — he gave us guidance and encouragement when we needed it. He prodded us into action when we felt lazy, got us going when we were indecisive, and reminded us that a little cooperation with others can go a long way.

In sincere appreciation for his constant concern and efforts on our behalf, we dedicate this 1971 Le Sabre

On May 15th, 16th, and 17th, 1969, the Schalmont Drama and Music Departments presented their second smash musical of the decade, Li'l Abner. Under the superb direction of John B. Sheehan and the musical mastery of John H. Nethaway, the multitalented performers, for three consecutive nights, acted before S.R.O. crowds.

On Friday October 16, 1970 Schalmont students were privileged to witness a debate between congressional candidates Samuel S. Stratton and Daniel E. Button. These two incumbents, fighting for election from the 29th District, debated a wide range of issues that included Congressional reform, voting age and the Women's Liberation Movement

Majorettes have their problems. We can never find a record player or else we compete with TV cheerleaders for the chry during practice. One night the sports perves threw snow balls and broke our record when we had the tape for that and then weight the arm of the record player with nickels so it wouldn't skip! Majorettes put up with a lot of grief, but it's all worth it

Some kids have talent in their fingers and some have talent in their brains and then there's those with talent in their muscles. Our girls basketball team has all these qualities. Nine teams, including a total of 89 girls, participated. If you were lucky enough to catch a glimpse of our games, you saw our unique style and strategy. Our advisors, Miss Meader and Miss Suits, tried their hardest to make good basketball players out of us. Final team standings were

"May I have your attention please. This is Mr. Corrigan. Some mental midget has made another sick call . . ." and so began another period 2, or lunch B in the lives of Schalmont students. The teachers and administration managed to empty the school and send the innocent pupils out into the freezing cold to await their doom. The police would then search the halls in an attempt to find a misplaced bomb. After a most thorough search of the school, which, if we were lucky would last a period, we would return to our classes.

At first it was all rather amusing with us having snowball fights and seeing how many could fit in a V.W. bug, but after a while bomb scares became as much of a bother to us as they did to the administration. After standing in below zero weather six times, the joke of our mental midget wasn't funny.

AREA ALL-STATE MUSIC FESTIVAL

Saturday evening, November 22, in Schalmont's unique auditorium, the New York State Music Association presented it's Area All State Festival to a standing-room-only crowd. There were three sections to the concert: orchestra, chorus, and band. The most festive part of the All State Festival was the last, by the band. Credit goes equally to the performers and to Alfred A. Renino of White Plains High School, the Zubin Mehta of band music. Taking off with a march, the band was kept to a delt light touch throughout with romping riffs by clarinets, the birdlike flutes, trumpets, and every other band instrument getting equal time.

THE DIARY OF ANNE FRANK

REMINISCING

Many things happened in the play but the best are the incidents everyone will look back on and laugh about years from now. Each of us will always remember the events which were horrible when they happened but funny afterwards. Who can forget the night Mrs. Van Daan was caught in her risqué slip when the lights came on suddenly? Or the time Mrs. Frank got her scenes mixed and came out in her nightgown when she wasn't supposed to (another quickie change). I heard the crew didn't mind at all. It seemed that since Mr. Dussel and I shared the same room, our clothes were always helter skelter. His wild pajamas were always half way on me when he'd ask me what I was doing! Oops! Sorry about that Mr. Dussel

The Hanukkah scene held special hazards for all of us. One day Mr. Frank received a bath robe belt instead of a scarf and another time he wasn't handed anything. Peter received a present that was so well wrapped he couldn't get it opened. Poor Mr. Van Daan had to get used to smoking cigarettes without filters. Thank-you prop people. And Margot, remember the heroic Maccabees?

Miep often brought cakes which read "Peace in 1944"; they were poked at, licked, and half eaten before any performances. Poor Mr. Kraler drank tea that had been around ever since dress rehearsal.

That leaves myself, Anne Frank. I'll remember every thrilling moment from tryouts to final curtain

MR. SHEEHAN, THANK-YOU

A TIME FOR US MAY 22, 1970

"A time for us someday there'll be," but as freshmen it seemed so far away. We sold candy and pillows and had bake sales so that when the prom came we would be ready. And ready we were. We were different. Our prom was held on Friday, May twenty-second so instead of taking Monday off we left on Friday. The prom was held at The Bavarian Chalet, and the band knew our theme song: "A Time For Us!"

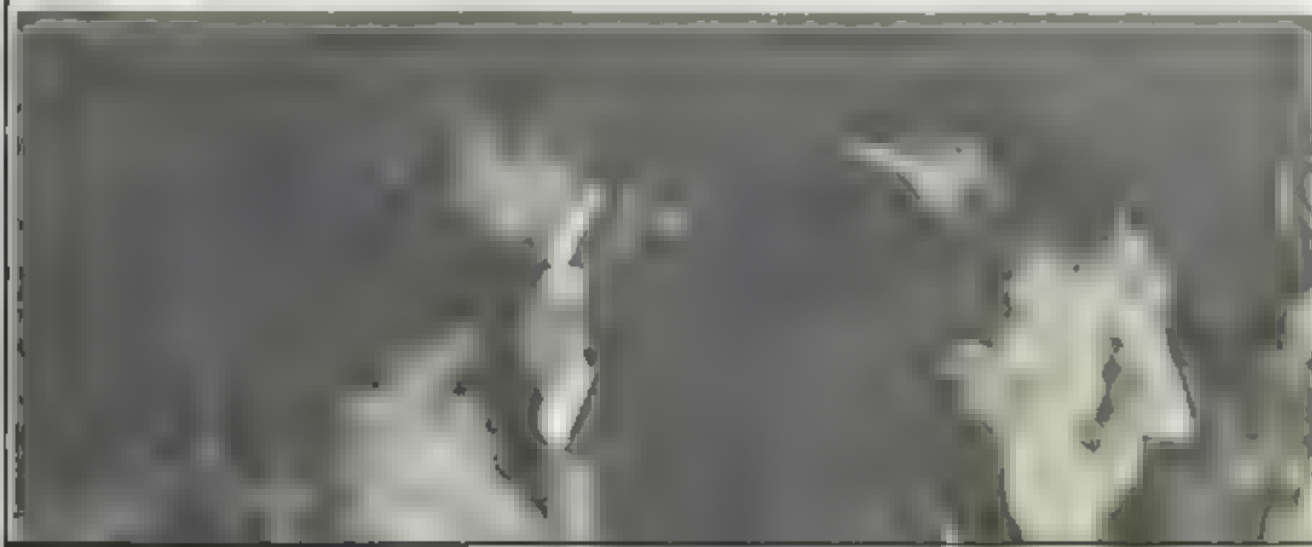

The flowers and fountains made a great background for the beautiful gowns, the tuxes with ruffled shirts, and a top hat and cane or two. This was our night "when dreams so long denied" could flourish, in between the photo flashes every five seconds.

So quickly the hours passed and the Queen and court were crowned. Our time was nearing to an end, but every moment of it was beautiful. The dresses were hung up, and the flowers wilted, but the memories remained. "A time for us at last to see a life worthwhile for you and me."

We've made it! After four long years of high school lunches, study halls, passes, demanding teachers, and homework, we've earned the right to be called SENIORS. If you were to ask each one of us what is the best thing about being a senior, we would say June 27th! And if you asked us what were the best times and the worst times we had throughout high school, you would get 190 different answers. The reason is that we are different people with individual opinions, goals, and ideals. Just ask one of us how it feels to be a senior — to many it's "great" and to others it's "not so great". But one thing is undisputable — we are the Seniors. Look around. We are the varsity, the captains, and the leaders. We are the presidents of Student Council, National Honor Society, and the Editors of the Yearbook. We are involved. We can do stupid things because we're seniors. That's our Senior Lounge down in the Science Wing; so is that pole in the lobby. The annual Class of '71 candy sale is famous. We are the loudest in the cafeteria and the spirit-leaders of the school. We mock underclassmen because they are. We are experienced. We know what it's like to fail, and we know what it's like to succeed. We're the oldest students. We love Jasper, 2:13 P.M., vaca-

We've got so many memories, especially of our last year — like the Senior class "meetings" at Way's and Pat McClenahan's and the "executive session" at Hasbrouck's on Halloween. How about the unofficial cast party at "Beef and Brew"? Oh, and remember the lounge? The walls were true masterpieces! And that cold bomb scare in December? Unforgettable. Hey Dick, got take a lap! dent, many new teachers and curriculum changes, the middle school was built, and even the high school walls were painted. But most important — we've changed. We were the typical freshmen: loudmouthed, boisterous, and definitely inexperienced. But each year in high school taught us a little bit more. We began to learn how to get along with people and accept the responsibilities of school work. We learned a lot. We learned from our teachers, administrators, and each other. Schalmont is people, and our relationships with these people have been meaningful. Our faculty gave a lot, and many were always willing to help in time of crisis. Mrs. Troskosky pulled us through the regents and directed two of our Jr. Class Plays. Mrs. Mueller directed the third, "The Bald Soprano".

We just couldn't forget the Law of Cosines, especially when we were at a Varsity basketball game. Mr. Tyner and his ties, Mr. Mitchell's plaid pants, Mr. Baker's suits, and Miss Warren's class discussions. They were great. Our teachers cared. They weren't just educators; they were our advisors and yes, even our friends.

Mr. Ellen, our class advisor, was a special friend. He guided class activities since we were freshmen. 1967 seems like such a long time ago. Guess he can really tell how we've grown. We've always been one of the most active and richest classes in the school. Our success is due to Mr. Ellen's basic attitude: advise but let them accomplish through their own decisions and actions. It will make them or break them. We planned, worked, succeeded, and once in a while, failed. But they were our successes and our failures. Mr. Ellen was always there with support and often "told it like it was". We owe him a great deal and appreciate all he has done. Yeah, when you stop and think about it, you realize that school has been so much of our lives. You can't spend all that time in a place without it meaning something to you. It becomes important in spite of everything — whether you hate it, love it, or are indifferent. Some days were fabulous. Maybe you got away with everything you did: going to the lounge instead of the library, enjoying an apple outside with a friend or maybe it snowed and your bus had to leave early or maybe — some teacher, some class aroused your curiosity and was interesting. Maybe a really good discussion in English or a long talk with a teacher who understands what it's like to be growing up now. And there were bad days when absolutely nothing went right. There was only one consolation —

good luck, and coping with severe discouragement are all a part of school and just plain living. We had to take things

And they meant a lot to every-

you lost and felt bad about it —

That's what made it so great when you were happy and so rotten when times were bad. We were a part of so many things, and they were a part of us. We are a part of the future, too. And hopefully, the things we've already learned here will help us — classroom things, like Chemistry and Physics. Maybe laboring through all those years of Math with Miss Armstrong, Miss Bazaar, and Mr. O will not have been in vain. Hopefully, we have gained

 From Mr. Jacobs, the long raps about literature and also about ourselves. Miss Kusek and Mr

 Mr. Howard, Economics, Drama, them all and perhaps we can use what we learned. There were other lessons too, like patience

we know enough to use all our past experiences to help us be a part of the future, to help us know what to do with our lives. We'll be a part of a new, different life, new freedoms, new responsibilities — college maybe, or a job. Being a senior means looking forward to a new part of life. Anxious, expectant, sometimes a little afraid, but mostly happy and confident. We'll be disillusioned sometimes and disappointed, but we'll make good times happen. We'll be successful too. We've learned to care about people and life. Maybe we'll help to improve the world, maybe not, but at least we'll try.

VARSITY

Co-Captain E. Johnson

Co-Captain B. Malezyk

Co-Captain G. Way

The season started as all do, with the prospect of championship. Only this year it was quite different. There were six seniors and only four boys with any varsity experience. Our line was small and our backs inexperienced.

Coach Cooper's first words were that he wanted to start a winning tradition of football at Schamont. He said that even if Ballston Spa had sixty men on the bench to our seventeen, there were still only eleven men on the field at one time

Although the scores didn't reflect it, the other teams found that most of the time Schalmont's eleven played as tough as theirs

It was a tiring season, with us taking a physical beating play after play. It was the seniors who took the brunt of the criticism, but it was the juniors and sophomores who learned from them to never quit. Next season they will have a chance to avenge the losses and prove to all that football is growing at Schalmont and a winning spirit has not been lost

COLONIAL COUNCIL CHAMPIONS

If anyone were to set out to find a group of teenage boys who best exemplified the American tradition of motherhood and apple pie, they'd have to search no further than the Schalmont soccer field

These young men combined skill and determination, (and a party every weekend) to capture the Colonial Council Soccer Championship and finish unbeaten in league standings

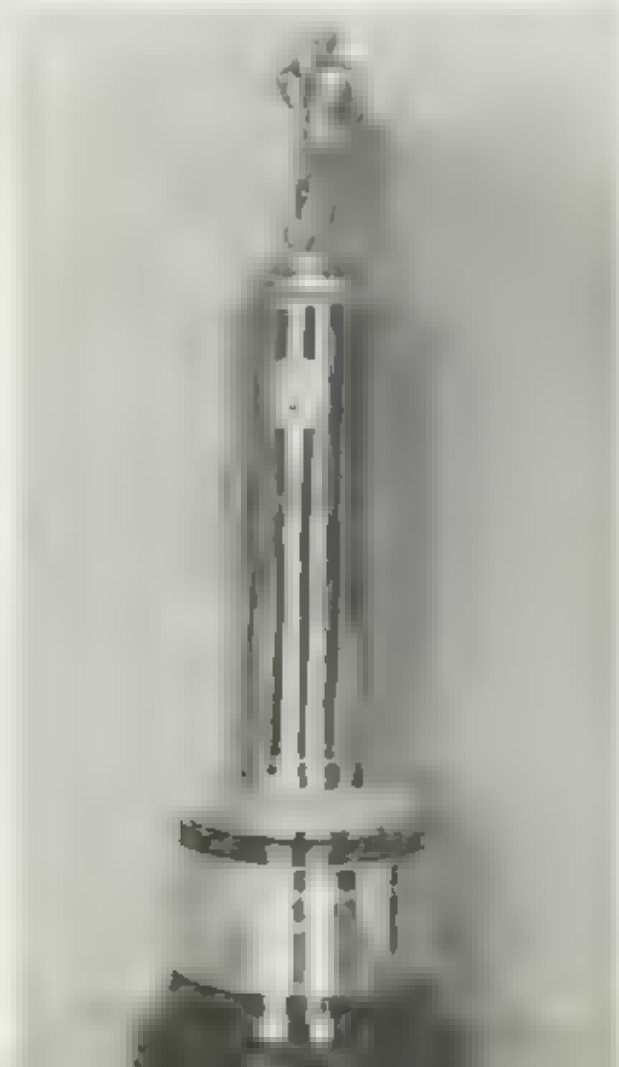

The trophy which the team received at the end of the campaign was only befitting of the Seniors who closed out their soccer careers. With Juniors composing the nucleus of the team, (which advanced all the way to the semi-finals of the Class B Championships) Schalmont should once again be a strong contender next year

We got the spirit, so let's hear it!

Laryngitis, broken swords, no vest for basketball season, never 10 cheerleaders on time for the Alma Mater, and cheering in the newly established Cohoes River were all part of being a varsity cheerleader. We had fun, despite cheering in all sorts of weather and little arguments during the year. You can bet we wouldn't give it up for anything.

What do you say about a man who turns Schalmont students into track stars at a small high school in Rotterdam, New York. We say he's great. For three consecutive years we've had impressive scores. The record over that time stands at 36-4-1, and this year promises to be even better yet. In 1969 six school records were broken and in the final event of the championship meet Schalmont finished first and carried the trophy and coach into the showers. He gets a little worried thinking about losing Krylowicz, Warner, Wormuth, Malezyk, Snyder, Shaver, LeGere, and Zappieri, but he always finds someone to fill the shoes of those who leave.

Schalmont baseball prospects for 1971 look good. After a disappointing 1969, the team improved a lot at the end of 1970 and 1971 can be the year for the Sabres.

The team has two returning senior pitchers, Chris Battiste, and Mike Mugits, who gained a reputation throughout the colonial council as "The Schalmont Smokers".

Mike Mugits

Add a super star shortstop John Casso and improving underclassmen such as Gilman, Hunter, Mangano, and Co plus the expert coaching of Bruce Bouck, and the Schalmont baseball team has the potential for a fine year in 1971.

Chris Battiste

Victory is sweet

With only our second year in league competition Schalmont is showing signs of an emerging power in the Colonial Council. Behind the leadership of Coach Gallo wrestling promises to be an up and coming sport for Schalmont. You'd think that in only its second year that the team wouldn't match up to schools like Ravena, Draper, and Mechanicville. Surprisingly our grapplers defeated all but Ravena at least once. After the impressive year the other schools are watching Schalmont's success as a real threat for a championship

Twas the night of the big game, fingers were crossed
In the hope that the game wouldn't result in a loss
Silence filled the gym, we were ready to go
Then in walked our coach, the one and only "O"

Enter the team of opposing players
Glustering with stars, layer upon layer
As the center scraped the ceiling with his head
We all began wishing that we were dead

We thought of the school that we were to uphold
Then looked to the stands: All the seats were sold
The game was to begin; the buzzer had rung
On came the cheerleaders; the alma mater was sung

The lead changed hands as baskets were switched
All the fans soon wondered if the game were fixed
Mr. O became enraged and signaled for time
The way he was jumping we knew we were behind

BASKETS, BASKETS, BASKETS, BOYS, YOU MAKE

THE BASKETS, WE MAKE THE NOISE

At the end of the half the game was all tied
And everyone wondered if the scorer had lied
As the third quarter was about to begin
The fans all hoped that we would win

Then all of a sudden Schalmont
jumped to the lead
The score was so high it was impossible to exceed
The game was over, the Sabres had won
We were content; our good deed was done

Everybody was happy, our coach was proud.
 The fans were screaming, their voices were loud.
 The players were filled with pride and esteem.
 I knew they were on a victorious team.

JR. VARSITY

The J.V. cheerleaders have had a long history of torn ligaments, broken swords, and late arrivals to away games. There were good times, like when we ate all the food in the EC room at Ballston Spa, and bad times when we did an individual cheer and got knocked half way across the gym by an inconsiderate referee

CHEERLEADING

But of course, the season ends much too soon and again we are faced with the big question of — "will I make it next year?"

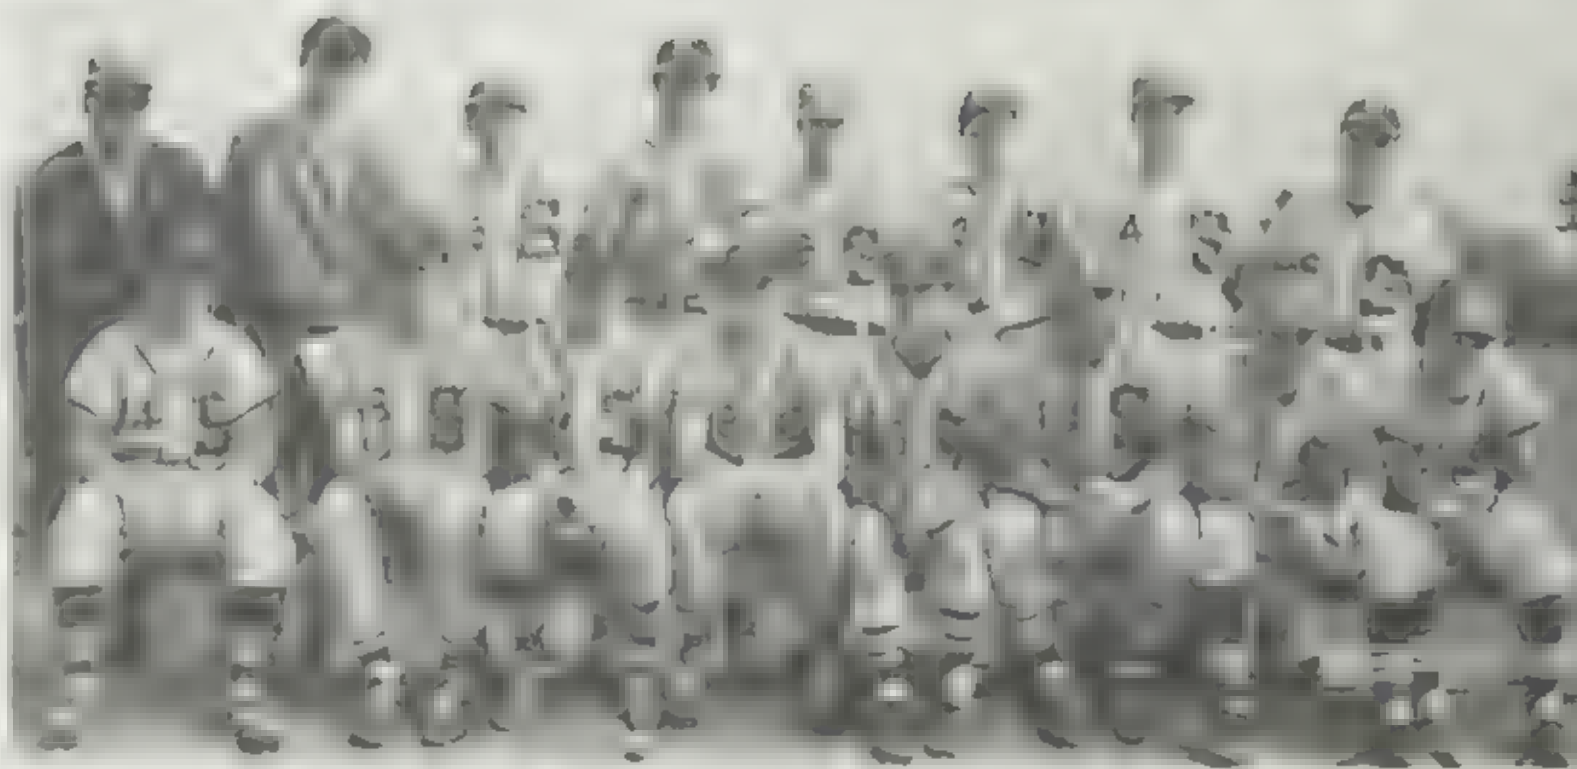

J.V. BASEBALL

After the first four weeks of practice we found there wasn't much to say about the J.V. Baseball Team. We did a lot of scrambling from one position to another

Although our record showed more losses than wins, we did prove that we had varsity prospects for next year's team. It looks good when a pitcher strikes out 21 batters in one game, right, Keith?

We only had a handful of spectators, but one of our regulars was Mrs Masucci, who brought us delicious chocolate cake.

We finally had the opportunity to play J.V. football. Under the enthusiastic coaching of Mr. Russo we practiced hard and played hard. Our team was small and mostly inexperienced and because of this our record wasn't very impressive.

Even though we didn't win too many games we were proud to have played for Schalmont.

After games where some of your best players are out with knee injuries, cuts, back injuries and four sprained ankles, you wonder how Mr. Bouck turned them into such a fine team. He sits through gym class and after gym class, making up new offences and usually ends up with a garbage basket full of papers and an offence that works. The J.V. team is a great bunch of energetic, enthusiastic guys who care about winning and work hard at it

MR. CORRIGAN

This man is kind of spooky. When he frowns, his eyes get real dark and its impossible to tell whether he's going to yell or smile. When the word gets out that he's not here today, the halls get populated during classes. He's always jotting down names on his personalized stationery. He wants kids to be where they belong

Who is Mr. Corrigan? He's Schalmont's House Principal, Advisor of the Service Squad, the Sabres number one supporter, and someone very special to the students of this school. Just attend any assembly and listen to the applause when he walks up on the stage. Or try to walk the halls during classes, and meet him face to face! He'll give you a few pearls of wisdom or maybe a few jokes — if you're lucky. "Okay gents — get to homeroom before I introduce you to our revised three day vacation plan."
